

Finally I've made it. With "just" 10 months of delay I was able to publish the first version of my new homepage. I could list some excuses for this delay, like graphic problems in IE ore something, but the truth is, that I was just lazy with this page. Even now, it is just a very basic version with a simple blog, but I'm sure much more, interesting things will follow in the next months. Come back soon and see yourself! Meanwhile you could browse through my gallery . Have fun!